

AUC inquiry eFiling registration and submissions Proceeding 28501

The AUC's eFiling System is a web-based electronic filing tool used to manage, search and upload documents, including evidence filings, considered in applications filed with the AUC.

Anyone involved in, or interested in, a proceeding before the AUC should become familiar with and able to use the platform. It is designed to be used by all individuals and groups involved in AUC regulatory proceedings.

Once an account is created, you will be able to view proceedings and register for any proceeding of interest. When you register for a proceeding you will receive notifications about the developments of the inquiry.

1. Registering to eFiling to participate in the AUC's inquiry

Interested parties who want to participate can register as interveners and have the ability to file submissions, or as observers, with no permissions to file submissions.

Users have a choice between an organizational account or an individual account.

Individual accounts

Individual accounts are intended for landowners or anyone with a personal interest in the inquiry. They should not be used by individuals representing an organization such as an employee or lawyer.

To create an individual account, select New personal account on the login page.

The information you fill in to create your account will go on the public record and an email address is required to complete the registration. A temporary password will be emailed to you to complete the account set-up.

Organizational accounts

Organizational accounts are required for those who will be filing information with the AUC on behalf of an organization. These may include utility companies, law firms, Indigenous groups, etc.

2. Finding the inquiry proceeding (28501)

The easiest way is to log in and enter the proceeding number 28501 in the Go to... section and select Go.
